WORLD'S LARGEST
IRIS GROWERS

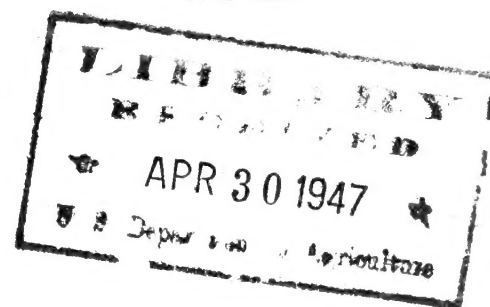

Jardin des Iris

A. F. BLOESE & SON

R. 4, Box 787

BATTLE CREEK, MICHIGAN

ONLY ONE QUALITY—
THE BEST

In order to enable us to grow finer iris as well as to reduce the cost of producing them, we have tried to make our establishment as modern as today's newspaper. It would give us great pleasure to show you our new farm, especially about June 1st when more than 40 miles of plants are in full bloom. Our iris are grown in rows 40 inches apart with the rhizomes spaced 14 inches in the rows, which gives each plant plenty of elbow room to develop into the high quality sure-to-bloom rhizomes we send out. With the aid of especially designed machinery we can keep quality up and prices down. For instance, a marvelous planting machine, which is not to be found on any other iris farm, enables us to line out rhizomes at the rate of one each second and to do a much better job than can be done by hand. An apparatus on one of our tractors digs long rows of iris in a few minutes that would require the back-breaking labor of several men all day. Still another mechanical device for cutting fans when we transplant large quantities of stock results in another saving. These savings are all passed along to you.

GIANT IRIS

In recent years many new varieties of iris have appeared which are two, three, or even four times as large as the old sorts found in almost every garden. The accompanying cut (natural size) of ORMOHR gives you a good idea of the immense size frequently attained by many varieties we grow. Then, too, their sparkling clear colors make the older sorts look pretty drab in comparison. Even the higher priced varieties are not expensive when one considers the fact that they multiply so rapidly that in a few short years a single rhizome will produce enough plants for a beautiful row or many clumps in the garden.

Visitors are always welcome.

Your Questions Answered

During the many years we have grown irises, our customers have asked us innumerable questions concerning the culture of this beautiful flower. We have endeavored to embody in a booklet answers to all these queries. Detailed information is given about where to plant, how to plant, and when to plant irises. A popular but fallacious theory regarding iris culture, the following of which results each year in the loss of thousands of rhizomes, is exploded. An old French custom in which unique use is made of iris rhizomes is described. This is of interest to every housewife. Simple instructions are given for successfully bringing irises into bloom in the house during the winter months. Easily followed directions are given with reference to propagation, preparing blooms for the show room and selecting suitable locations in the garden for planting irises and securing pleasing color combinations. Other matters discussed are unfavorable conditions which result in poor bloom and how they may easily be corrected, planting irises to prevent soil erosion, growing fall blooming irises, etc.

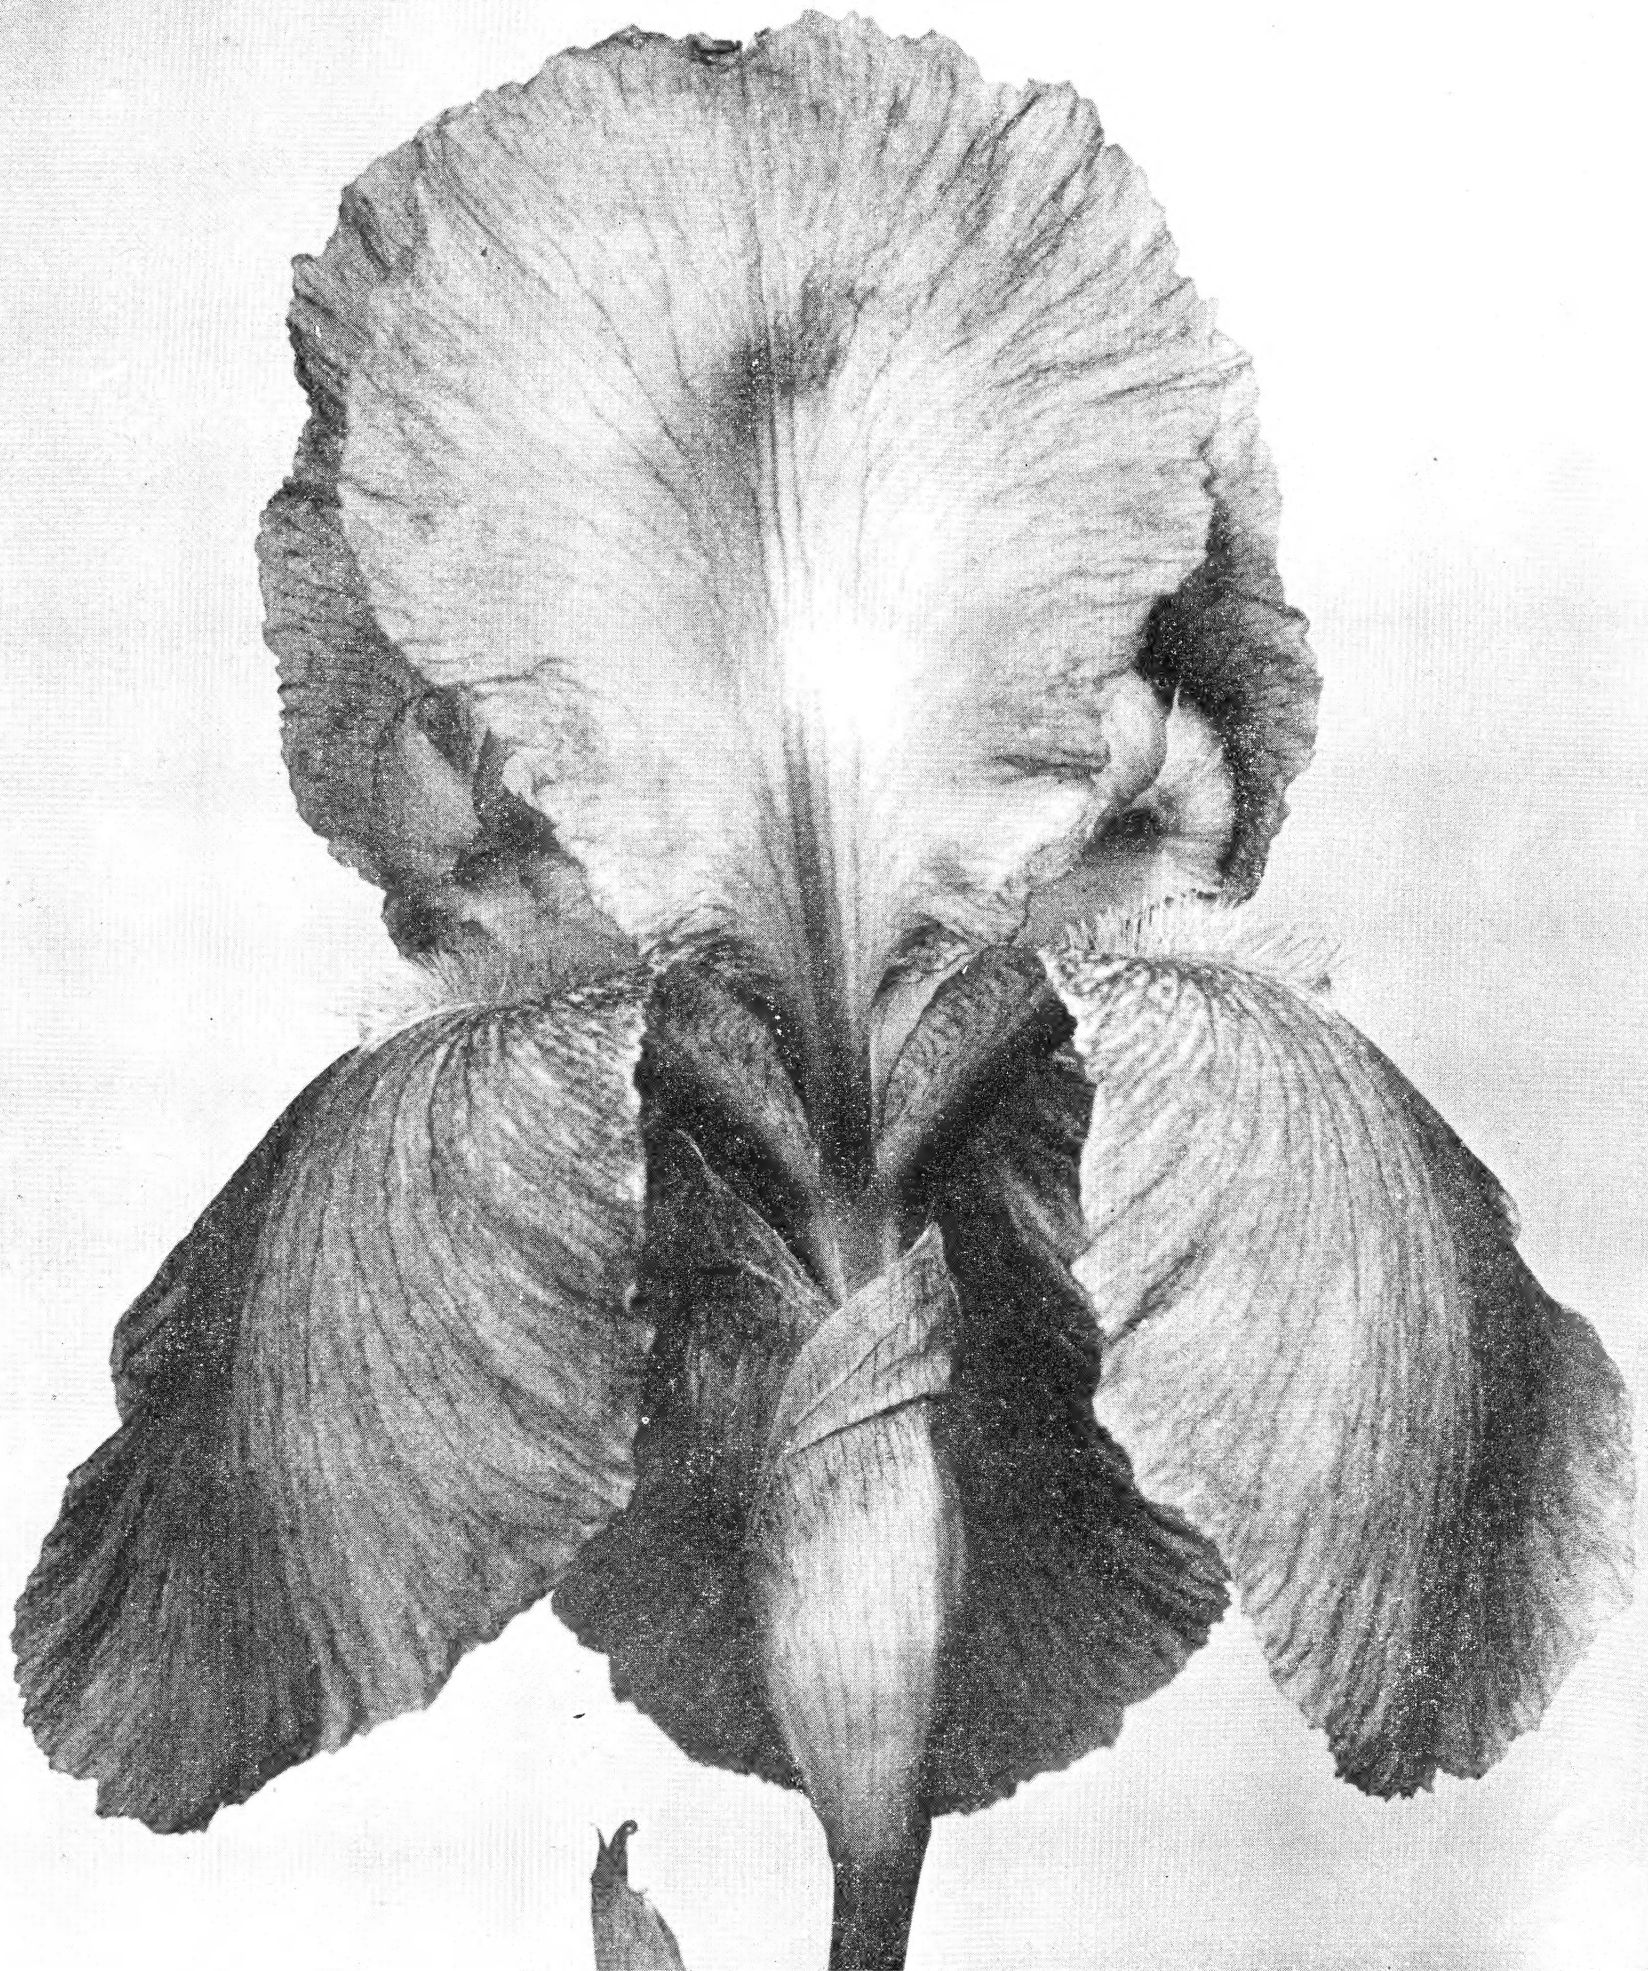

The statements contained in the booklet are not based upon whim, fancy, conjecture or information gathered from iris literature, but from a thoroughly reliable source — actual experience in our own gardens.

Price 10 cents, postpaid.

Vitamist Cartridges

(MAKE PLANTS SHOOT UP)

Apply Vitamin B₁ to Your Garden the Easy Vitamist Way — 30 Cartridges for $1, enough to "vitamize" a small garden for one year.

The researches of a group of California scientists, an account of which appeared in Better Homes and Gardens some time ago, brought to light the fact that vitamin B₁ has a powerful influence upon plant life. Here are some of the miracles that have been wrought by use of this subtle element:

Daftodilis 42 inches tall with blossoms sufficiently large to conceal a salad plate. Roses with 5-inch buds. Finer citrus fruit. Doubled the size of orchids. Produced hyacinths with flower heads more than a foot long. Transplanted roses while in bloom without loss of a single bud. Saved trees from destruction from root rot. Made weak and sickly plants spring into vigorous growth and greatly accelerated growth of seedlings.

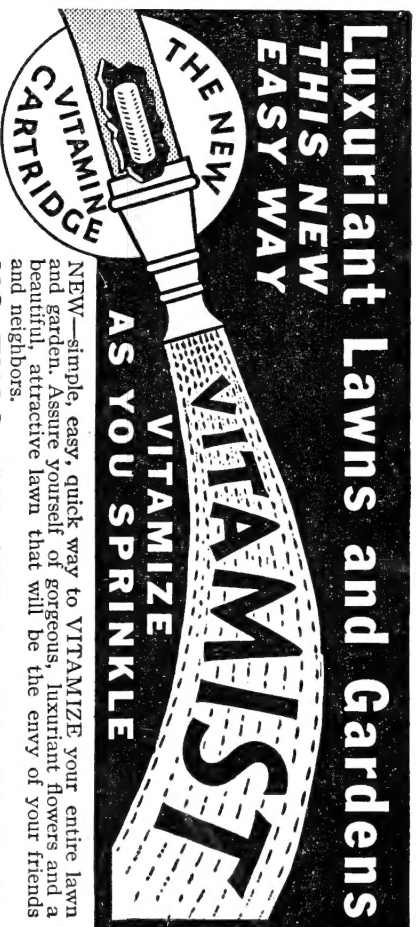

When we read the foregoing astonishing news we at once secured some of this miracle working preparation. Five hundred rose bushes which had just been received and planted seemed to be excellent material for experiment. We treated 250 plants and used the other 250 as controls. The plants were to receive one vitamin application a week. The usual method of application, putting a small quantity of vitamin in a sprinkling can filled with water, was followed. After the first application it became apparent that the labor involved was too great to continue the experiment.

To overcome this difficulty we produced Vitamist, which takes the back breaking labor out of applying the vitamin.

By putting a plug and screen in the overhead irrigation pipe it was possible to vitamize 250 rose bushes weekly with the expenditure of practically no energy and only a moment or two of time.

The results were amazing. The vitamin treated roses produced blossoms 12 days before the controls burst into bloom and the treated plants also grew faster and were larger and in every way superior to the untreated bushes.

Remarkable results were also obtained with petunias. They produced a myriad of flowers.

NEW—simple, easy, quick way to VITAMIZE your entire lawn and garden. Assure yourself of gorgeous, luxuriant flowers and a beautiful, attractive lawn that will be the envy of your friends and neighbors.
